Historical Background

The Lankavatara Sutra, believed to have been composed in India around the 4th to 5th century CE, is considered one of the core texts of Mahayana Buddhism. Its name derives from the island of Lanka (Sri Lanka), where it was supposedly first taught or where it gained prominence. The sutra is renowned for its unique focus on the primacy of mind (citta) and consciousness, setting it apart from earlier Buddhist texts that emphasized external phenomena or dharma. Originally written in Sanskrit, the Sutra was later translated into Chinese, with the earliest known translation attributed to the monk Guṇabhadra in the 5th century CE. This translation became the foundation for many subsequent Chinese commentaries and interpretations, influencing the development of Chan (Zen) Buddhism.

Its philosophical depth has made it both a challenging and inspiring text for practitioners and scholars alike, prompting numerous translations and commentaries over the centuries.
